MONDAY MORN'G, AUG. 18, 1855

WANTED, two boys about 15 or 16 years of user as tendy babbis, to learn the Pethiting bossess; apply immediately at the Buily News of Bre.

The Hop at the Ocean House of Priday evening was a brilliant affair, and was numerously attended by a large and inshionable audience. Soon after the dancing commenced, the gas lights suddenly went out, owing to a defect in one of the pipes, it was afterward ascertained. Mr. Weaver had the dinning Hall cleared, and in a few moments the guests were unjoying themselves again in that apartment. Among those present we noticed Madame La Grange and Miss Elise Hensler.

This morning, at 12 o'clock, at Ocean Hall, Miss Henslar's Concert tukes place There is already great curiosity to hear the young singer who, as an arriste, was so cm. inently successful at La Scola in Milan and who, as an American and a lovely weman, was so caressed by the society of that city. Without making any extraordinary claim, perfectly simple and naive, an earnest and industrious student, and with a voice of singular sweetness, purity and freshness, Miss Hensler is sure to charm all who love the best music for its own sake.

OF We must acquit friend Marsh, of the Boston Bee, of the charge we made against him a few days ago, of praising one lady at the expense of another, as for as the language used was concerned; he was absent from the city a the time. Ho admits, however, that he admires handsome ladios; this is a good deal of a confession for a modest bachelor like brother Marsh.

We learn that the man who found drowned at the head of the Long Wharf, a few days ago, belonged in Bristol; his wife came down on Friday and recognized his alothing. He was missing from home, but she did not know what had become of him, or how his death was caused, whether by drowning or violence l Fantasia de L'Opera, Il Travatore de Verdi, is the title of a new piece of music by F. B. Helmamuller; it is very beautiful.

NEW MUSIC

Ocean House Polka Mazurka, as preformed by the Germanians at Newport, by Carl Faust,

The above are for sale by A. J. Ward, 99 Thames street.

Galignani's Messenger says that during the last few days a purty of men of color, of the deepost black, dressed in the newest style of Parisian fashion, have been elisery ed at the Universal Exhibition, the Jardin d'Hiver balls, and other public places,-These abon gentlemen are functionaries of the court of his imperial Majesty Faustin I. better known as Soulouque. Among them are General Count Elea, senator, Grand Chascellor of Hayti; Viscount Elua, his son; Baron Simon, senator; and the Count de Val, senator, The above personages, with a numerous suite, ledge at the hotel in the garden of the Circle de l'Exprsition. They are admitted to ding at the club dinner, and may be seen almost any ovening smoking eigars and taking coffee on the terrace.

A STUBORN JURY .- The Portland Transcript tells a story of Colonel Mliving to Washington county, Maine, who had a great aptitude for serving as a juror. When thus serving he had a very great anxiety that his opinion should be largely consulted in making up a verdict,-Some years ago, while upon a cuse, afte many hours' trial to agree, but failing, he marchalled the delinquent jury from the room to their seats in the court, where the impatient crowd awaited the result of the trial. Have you agreed upon a verdict? inquired the clerk. Col. M-arose turned a withering glance upon his brother jurors, and exclaimed : "May it please the court, we have not. I have done the best I could do, but here are eleven of the most contrary devils I over had any dealings

In the year 1784, the Legislature of Pennsylvania, to abolish a practice then prevailing, passed the following resolution after considerable opposition :- That hereafter no member shall come into the chamber bare-footed, nor cut his bread and cheese on the steps of the Capital,"

ZEPHYRS FROM THE HILL

I have been roaming again, and bring you another bauquet, which I trust may be as fragrant and agreeable as the last.

You ought to be endowed with an ubiquious spirit, so as you could be at all the Hotels when the morning paper arrives, and the guests ascertain that it contains a "Zephyr." Such a crowding and rushing for the News you never beheld; but few papers are to be had, and consequently the ladies and gentlemen gather in groups, while one reads aloud for the amasement of many; why do you not furnish more papers, so that all can be gratified. Some of our party think this short allowance one of your sly tricks to excite all, and then gratify them by degrees. There is much curiosity to know who the " Spy " is, and I heard one beautiful young lady boast today that she knew that the Col., would tell her who wrote the articles, and she was dotermined to ask him the first time she saw him. Now, Col., you know that you solemnly promised not to reveal my name, or to betray me in any manner; and, relying upon your honor, I pen you another epistle in the full belief that even that beautiful young lady, of whom I have spoken, notwithstanding all her confidence in her persuasive powers, and your gallantry, will not be able to win you to a confession of this little secret.

Let us look in at the Ocean House, and there we find,

Mrs. B ..... a, of Baltimore; her ludylike deportment, quiet and unpretending manners, her taste in dress, simple and yet so becoming, have procured her an envisble position at the Ocean,

Mrs. E. D. W--y, of Philadelphia, is still the leader of fashion at this popular house; she has great taste for music, and I understand that she is an accomplished performer on the Piano Forte.

Mrs. and Miss D-e, of New York, are decided favorites.

Miss D--s, of New York, is a very accomplished lady; she speaks several languages fluently, and plays on the Piano Forte with great nicety and teste; she excentes the most difficult pieces with the greatest accuracy.

The two Misses W-e, of New York, are great favorites, especially with the gentlemen, as the numberless bouquets on their centre-table indicate.

Mrs. W. W--y, of Philadelphia, has a splendid figure, and dresses with exquisite taste; she is admired by all.

Miss D-s, of New York, is beautiful and greatly admired.

Mrs. and Miss B ...... v, of New York, are smoog the most distinguished ladies at

The four Misses H---o, of Natchezparticularly beautiful, and her mourning 1750, that was driven upon Easton's Beach costume adds much to her charms, in my estimation, Miss M. e, of New Orleans, a genuine Southern beauty; she is very accomplisted and plays the Piano Forte in a very artistic manner, prefering the productions of Gottschalk, Wallace, Lizt, &c.

The Misses S-4, of Philadelphia, are very handsome and attract much actention. The two Misses S--n, of New York, are greatly admired.

Mrs. R ......... of Philadelphia, is a very handsome lady and dresses with line taste; she is a doubled favorite.

Mrs. W--d, of New York, is a very fashionable lady and a fine dancer.

I also notice many others whom I have not time to describe at present; among them are, Miss G-k, of Cincinnati; Miss E-s, of Philadelphia; Miss -y, of New York ; Miss T-n, of New York; Mrs. F--r, N. York; Miss McG--e, Philadelphia; Mrs. and Miss S-g, Pittsburgh; Miss W-t, New Jersey; Miss L-n, Philadelphia; Mrs. and Miss S--r, Massachuseits; Miss -t, New York; Miss W--l, Philadelphia; Miss V - B-n, Brooklyn,

Madame La Grange, the celebrated Prima Donna, is enjoying herself in a very pleasant and quiet manner. I understand entire length, which he said was very long. that her admirers will be gratified by hear ing her in a Concert at the Ocean House when she will be assisted by a number of distinguished artists now sojourning here. Miss Elise Hensler, the young American Prima Donna, from Boston, who has lately returned from Italy, where she has been studying music for the last four years, gives a Matinee Masicale at the Ocean House, on Monday morning, at 12 o'clock-

The Gormanians continue to be as great favorites as ever ; they discourse excellent music every afternoon and evening, at the Ocean, Atlantic and Believite. I understand that the annual Concert, or Soiree Dansante, the proneeds of which are for their benefit, will be given some evening next week.

Adelina Patti; the youthful cantatrice is to give a Concert on Wednesday next at Ocean Hall.

I heard this young lady in New York a short time ago, and she perfectly astonished me by her marvelinus vocalism: and I am sure that she will have a large andience on this occasion. She will be assisted by Signor Barrilli, the celebrated Baritone, who lately made his debut at the Academy of Masic, in Verdi's Opera "Rigoletto," together with several other artist.

THE SPY. | vation, never to be levelled.

DR. JACKSON ON THE LONG-WHARP,-Washington street for neveral years during and subsequent to the revolutionary war was sadly neglected. The water from the Cove frequently at full tides passed over it at the narrows, now called the Causeway. The town remonstrated with the owners of the lots in that section, but upon what grounds I have not learned. After more than once threatening to dispossess them of their lots for refusing to repair the street, but in vain, an anangement was made by which the stone, then lying on the adjacent wharves and which had been used as foundation materials for buildings that formerly were erected thereon, was used to construct the walls of the present street; and which have been relaid by the town and firmly capped.

The first lot South on the street adjoining Mr. Holt's premises, is the Collins Wharf estate, measuring on Washington street one hundred and ten feet. The map of Newport, constructed and published ac cording to Act, April 24th, 1776 by J. F. Des Banes Esq., and also another map, surveyed by Charles Blaskowitz, and engraved and published by William Faden, Charring Cross, Sept. 1st 1777, both give to this wharf a western extension of four hundred feet.

Henry Collins, Esq., who formed a gal tery of paintings, and whom the venerable Dr. Waterhouse styled the Lorenzi de Me dici of Rhode-Island, was a distinguished merchant of this town in 1740. He was an accomplished and liberal gentleman, and is the person named first in the deed of the Long Wharf. He was the owner of the whirf bearing his name prior to the grant of the former. At what time the ancient wharves on Washington street were constructed has not been a-certained, but references to them occur near that period when the General Assembly at its May Session, 1807, ceeded the public waters to the several towns in which they existed and gave them entire jurisdiction over them. Mr. Collins did an extensive business upon his wharf, and was the main projector of the Long-Wharf. When Abraham Redwood, an opulent and worthy Friend, gave to the Literary Society in this city in 1747 £500 sterling to be invested in books, Henry Collins presented to that Society the lot of land, upon which the building of the Redwood Library and Atheneum was erected in 1748; a beautiful specimen of the architecture of the Doricader, planned hy Peter Harring Esq., the architect of the present City Hail. The Association of the Library was incorporated in August, 1747, and the Library and its premises, are at this time most faithfully cared for by its vigilant and accomplating Librarian, Angustus Bush, Esq. Henry Collins also are very much admired; one of them is of Honduras, loaded with mahogony, in with her sails all set, on board of which no living creature was found, save a dog, although the table was prepared for a meab and meat was boiling in a kettle over the fire. As the long boat of that vessel was missing, it was at the time supposed that the crew, hearing the sound of the breakers, and fearing that they were in imminent danger, had recourse to their boat, which was probably jost amid the waves, and thus they perished, as they were never hear; from. The vessel was lightened of her cargo and brought to this wharl, and after being fitted for another voyage, Mr. C. changed her name, and called her the Beach hird. In the revolution of the country, as it has been affirmed, the British out her down and converted her into an armed galley.

Gov. John Collins who was governor of the State 1786-9, succeeded to the ownership of this wharf. It is probable that there existed some relationship between these two gentlemen. Mr. Thomas Hawnsby, a native of this city, eighty-nine years old on Friday, August 3d inst., a gentleman long distinguished for his great integrity and a remarkable strong and accurate memory, says, that he has seen vessels lying at Collins wharf three in depth its He also says that there were several buildings erected on the north side of it, which were used for almost every department, then connected with commerce, such as shops for ship carpenters, blacksmiths, coopers, riggers, sail makers, &c. Also that there was standing thereon when he was a hoy ten years old, a large newly erected building, the end of which was on the street, and which the British soldiers when in possession of the town removed to Quaker-field and placed it opposite to the Second Baptist Meeting-house on Farewell street, and occupied it as an office building, and for other purposes connected with the forage of that field. They also used as a forage, field, " Bannister's ten acre lot," a part of which now forms the beautiful Tours Park, in near the centre of which stands that " Relic " of the seventeenth century in Rhode Island, the well proportioned and symmetrical masonry of which, some moderns would assign to the Northmen of the eleventh and twelfth century, but which the accurate historian can class no where but in the day of Benedict Arnold, its resi constructor and original proprietor; and record it as a specimen of his cultivated taste and the product of his inventive genius and domestic convenience, that old rain, the pride of Newp ri, the stone built wind mill of 1650; an object well worthy of preser-

The British evacuated Newport, Monday October 25th, 1779. During their possessfon of the town, among other property which they destroyed was the farm house of Gov. Collins in the neck. He therefore determined to replace it by the removal of his building from Quaker field to his farm estate. He accordingly placed it at the head of Lilly Pond, where it yet remains, and is occupied as a dwelling house by Thomas Hazard, Esq. as it had been for soveral years by Gov. Collins in his life time, for his family mansion. The Collins wharf estate was sold by the widow of his son, John A. Collins Esq., at an Administratix's sale in 1834.

SPECTACLES AND EVE GLASSES—
Many persons who begin to require likeses are deterred from procuring them by the fear that they will not be able to get a pair that will suit their syes. But those who wait the Spectacle Depot, will find no difficulty of that kind, as the long experience of the subscriber, the complete meantment always to be found, and their prantical knowledge of the requirements of the eye, enables them to dende on the number meetal at once, saving the purchaser the trouble of changing half in dozen times. We therefore advise all who need a new pair of glasses, or who wish their glasses changed in their old baws, to call at the Spectacle Depot, 7.7 Westminster-st., (just below the Arcade,) with the certainty of being suited.
